

Writing About Characters Change

Baby Literary Essay

Teaching Point -

Characters in books, like in life change.

I want to teach you that one way that literary essayists can write about the whole of a text, tracking one idea across multiple parts, is to write about how characters change.

Writers Need To Track Ideas Across a Text

We can state our claim by:

- Saying a character changes. Example - Jeremy changes
- Showing how a character changes. Example - Jeremy changes from selfish to giving.

As I read the text today lets think about how our character changes in the text:

A Letter To Amy

Claim:

Finding the Evidence

1. Evidence of how they were one way in the beginning
2. Evidences for what made them change in the middle
3. Evidence for how they were another way at the end of the story.
